Dickinson made a strong plea to the court in his behalf, asking leniency, Judge Hole was not so inclined and sentenced the prisoner to 12 years in the penitentiary. The limit is 20 years. Judge Hole told Staub that, in his opinion, there are many sad truths in connection with the case, one of which was that the prisoner's aged father was compelled to go upon the stand and testify to having heard him saying: "What an easy thing it would be to go over to the Miller farm and kill the old man, scare the women and get their money." "It is only by luck and the interference of Providence," said Judge Hole, "that you do not stand here convicted of murder in the first degree."

After deliberating one hour the jury erpool against ex-Engineer John A George returned a verdict whereby he property involved will be divided etween the plaintiff and defendant, the latter retaining the plat book, together with a bench and note books, and the former receiving the original plans which Mr. George appropriaed thought the defendant will be iven tracings of each plan.

The case throughout was closely ontested, and one of the most pecular ever tried in a local court. Attorey Gaston, representing the plaintiff, stated his case to the jury. He said nat when Mr. George had gone out en brought to recover the same. e said the defendant had left cops of the different plans with the city, ut that he retained the originals. fr. Attorney Brookes, for the defendant, stated that the property held by Mr. George was private; that he had compiled the information contained when he was not in the employ of the city, and that they were, therefore, his own. Engineer Kelly was called. He was sked to state what property he beeved Mr. George retained that beonged to the city. He passed over he list of the various drawings, books, etc., enumerating the different articles which he thought should be turned over to him. He expressed the belief that the plat book had been made by Morris Williams, formerly in the employ of Mr. George, and that the bench and note books had been compiled while Mr. George was in the city's employ. Mr. Kelly believed the entire outfit belonged to the city. He compared several of the profiles with the original drawings before the ury, showing that there was a small difference between the two, although there had been no omissions of importance.

Mr. Kelly stated that he found difficulty in locating bench marks about he city from the level books Mr. Sr. George had left with him, inasmuch as they were not comprehensive, and, herefore, not reliable. He said the marks were not located definitely in the books turned over to the city, and that one book his predecessor with-

The board of equalization, W. L. Smith, chairman; William Cartwright, secretary, and Messrs. George Gross hans, F. G. Croxall, S. R. Dixson, convened at city hall this morning.

The assessor's books were on hand and the board at once began the work of comparing figures and checking up. Last year's rating is compared with that made by the assessors this year, and where errors occur or where the difference is found to be too great, corrections are made.

This is no easy task and the greatest part of the present week will be consumed in the work. It is hardly likely that the point will be reached before Monday next for the hearing of property owners.

The books of the assessors were found to be in excellent shape and this fact will greatly aid the board in their work.

The members will be in session from 9 to 4 during the week, but it is thought when the kicks commence to pour in a longer day will be neces-

ANOTHER "REAL" AMERICAN

"Ralph Marlowe." The present literary year is remarkable for the number of "first books" that seem to have caught the popular fancy. Prominent among the new authors who are achieving success is Dr. James Ball Naylor of Ohio. The title of his book is "Ralph Marlowe." Although this is not the doctor's first book, it is the first that has attracted wide attention. It is a simple, homely tale of American life, and the chief fabrics which so abound. character is one of the procession of

"native born Americans" that have cess of "David Harum." In this case he is a grumpy country physician, possessed, however, of a kindly spirit.

Dr. Naylor has taken as the scene of his book an Ohio country town. There is little to the plot of the book, its main company with $500,000 capital stock. interest being contributed by the quaint sayings of the characters. Dr. Naylor describes interestingly the modes of living of some of the people to be found in little towns in the Buckeye State.

The titular hero of the book is the drug clerk of the physician. Another entertaining character is the doctor's man of all work, whose bits of wisdom seem born of a good knowledge of human nature. Many of them are worth quoting. "By the way," says Joe Tucker, "there's somethin funny 'bout people argyin-dogged if there ain't! Ever think 'bout it? Say you didn't? Well, sir, it's just like this: It's purty toler'ble hard for two men to be on opposite sides in an argyment and both be right, but it's most danged easy fer 'em both to be wrong.'

The author of "Ralph Marlowe" is a native of Ohio, 40 years of age. He was born in a log cabin and grew up on a farm. After attending the schools of the neighborhood young Naylor taught school for awhile and then attended a medical college at Columbus For some years Dr. Naylor has practiced in Ohio, varying his labors with the writing of verses which have found their way into the newspapers and magazines. Dr. Naylor's verses have been published over the nom de plume "S. Q. Lapius." Dr. Naylor in referring to his first book can say of the life described in it, "All of which have seen and the greater part of which I have been."

A FITTING TRIBUTE

A Citizen of East Liverpool Pays Well Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respectable citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before:

Mr. H. Thompson, of 306 Fourth street, presser at the D. E. McNicol pottery, and resident of East Liver pool for the past 45 years, says: During my campaign experiences be tween the years of '61 and '64 I contracted a weakness of the kidneys, and at intervals I had an aching pain across the small of my back and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down, and, in fact, could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. They filled the bill exactly, giving me almost immediate relief and warded off the last

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

Dr. Naylor Creates One In His Novel | Smart Gown Colors, Fabrics and Trimmings-Muslin Gowns.

The French gowns repeat this season the old combination of blue and violet, as they do also a certain cardinal red with a plum purple or with bishop's purple. White retains its supremacy in every one of its shades-old ivory, silver, pearl, cream and blue white, while the ecrus, gray whites and oatmeal shades figure in all the choicest

Taffetas to be modish must be glossy, soft and pliable and of no weight at all. Light weight rules everything. Nothing with a heavy body or stiffness is to be thought of for dressy gowns.

Bareges are as sheer as mousseline de soie, and crepe de chines are quite as light and airy. Gauze and chambray rank next to tulles and mousseline in sheerness, for some mousselines exceed others in clear transparency. The charm of these plain, diaphanous fabrics is that if plisse they are still more lovely, and as we are to have plissage on everything this season skirt drapery will be graceful to a degree.

Black ribbon velvets now trim everything, reviving all the old 1850 styles of putting them on in even or graduated stripes or rings in tabs, straps, in zigzags, in Greek designs, in points and plaitings or basket work.

Tunics both short and full length, the former for visiting and street wear, the latter for full dress occasions, are met with frequently upon new gowns, and most graceful are they in the light spring materials.

It is to be noted that heavy ecru and yellow white passementerie laces lie upon the bottom of skirts as if they were a separate flounce hanging over a plisse of the under silk lining and being sewed on by the upper edge only. From seven to nine inches wide are some of them. The gown materials so trimmed are usually bareges, voiles and crepe de chines or foulards in light shades.

Insetting of tucked taffeta is carried out in white upon a sheer white voile. The design consists of white disks embroidered with gold. A short bolero is trimmed with very small disks all over it. Elbow sleeves are joined to long lace ones fitting over the hand. High gold ribbon for the Albanian belt is wound about several times.

This gown is to be worn with a white chip hat trimmed with a wreath of alder blossoms. It is broad of brim, its lining of maline folds, with bow of gold ribbon under the brim at the back, just perceptible. The ensemble suggested the blossoming month when it is to be worn at country wedding at the end of May by a matron of honor.

The bridesmaids are to wear large wreaths of white hyacinths. Their JUST NOW white chip hats covered with broad gowns of white silk muslin are extremely simple, the skirts with plisse flounces, bodices having shoulder scarfs of the same knotted in front and made over white silk. High Albanian belts of gold ribbon give a charming glint of have the selection of this part of color. Sleeves are to the elbow, with the country. Come and see. long white gloves. Tomato Sauce.

To make a tomato sauce put into a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter and part of an onion sliced thin. Place the pan over the fire and cook until the onion is highly colored. Then stir in one tablespoonful of flour and keep stirring until it is frothy. Add two small cupfuls of tomatoes, half a dozen peppercorns, three cloves and one bay leaf. Cover the pan and let this mixture cook gently for 30 minutes. Season with salt and strain through a sieve. This is very nice with beef in almost every form.

The present literary year is remarkable for the number of "first books" that seem to have caught the popular fancy. Prominent among the new authors who are achieving success is Dr. James Ball Naylor of Ohio. The title of his book is "Ralph Marlowe." Al-Bert Burns, of Lisbon, is improving, though this is not the doctor's first book, it is the first that has attracted wide attention. It is a simple, homely tale of American life, and the chief character is one of the procession of

Dr. Naylor describes interestingly the modes of living of some of the people to be found in little towns in the Buckeye State.

The titular hero of the book is the drug clerk of the physician. Another entertaining character is the doctor's man of all work, whose bits of wisdom seem born of a good knowledge of husulted in his death Sunday evening. man nature. A FITTING TRIBUTE

A Citizen of East Liverpool Pays a Well Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respectable citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before:

Mr. H. Thompson, of 306 Fourth street, presser at the D. E. McNicol pottery, and resident of East Liverpool for the past 45 years, says "During my campaign experiences be tween the years of '61 and '64 I contracted a weakness of the kidneys and at intervals I had an aching pain across the small of my back and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down, and, in fact, could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. They filled

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

Smart Gown Colors, Fabrics and Trimmings-Muslin Gowns.

The French gowns repeat this season the old combination of blue and violet, as they do also a certain cardinal red with a plum purple or with bishop's purple. White retains its supremacy in every one of its shades-old ivory, silver, pearl, cream and blue white, while the ecrus, gray whites and oatmeal shades figure in all the choicest fabrics which so abound.

Taffetas to be modish must be glossy, soft and pliable and of no weight at all. Light weight rules everything. Nothing with a heavy body or stiffness is to be thought of for dressy gowns.

Bareges are as sheer as mousseline de soie, and crepe de chines are quite as light and airy. Gauze and chambray rank next to tulles and mousseline in sheerness, for some mousselines exceed others in clear transparency. The charm of these plain, diaphanous fabrics is that if plisse they are still more lovely, and as we are to have plissage on everything this season skirt drapery will be graceful to a degree.

Black ribbon velvets now trim everything, reviving all the old 1850 styles of putting them on in even or graduated stripes or rings in tabs, straps, in zigzags, in Greek designs, in points and plaitings or basket work.

Tunics both short and full length, the former for visiting and street wear, the latter for full dress occasions, are met with frequently upon new gowns, and most graceful are they in the light spring materials.

It is to be noted that heavy ecru and yellow white passementerie laces lie

upon the bottom of skirts as if they were a separate flounce hanging over a plisse of the under silk lining and being sewed on by the upper edge only. From seven to nine inches wide are some of them. The gown materials so trimmed are usually bareges, voiles and crepe de chines or foulards in light

Insetting of tucked taffeta is carried out in white upon a sheer white voile. The design consists of white disks embroidered with gold. A short bolero is trimmed with very small disks all over it. Elbow sleeves are joined to long lace ones fitting over the hand. High gold ribbon for the Albanian belt is wound about several times. This gown is to be worn with a white chip hat trimmed with a wreath of alder blossoms. It is broad of brim, its lining of maline folds, with bow of gold ribbon under the brim at the back, just perceptible. The ensemble suggested the blossoming month when it is to be worn at country wedding at the end of May by a matron of honor. The bridesmaids are to wear large white chip hats covered with broad wreaths of white hyacinths. Their gowns of white silk muslin are extremely simple, the skirts with plisse flounces, bodices having shoulder scarfs of the same knotted in front and made over white silk. Tomato Sauce.

To make a tomato sauce put into a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter and part of an onion sliced thin. Place the pan over the fire and cook until the onion is highly colored. Then stir in one tablespoonful of flour and keep stirring until it is frothy. Add two small cupfuls of tomatoes, half a dozen peppercorns, three cloves and one bay leaf. Cover the pan and let this mixture cook gently for 30 minutes. Season with salt and strain through a sieve. This is very nice with beef in almost every form.

A MARVELOUS GROWTH.

Director of the Census William R. Marriam, commenting on the statistics of 1900, as far as compiled, says he is most impressed with the tremendous industrial advance made since 1890. The result of the census of manufacturers, according to Mr. Marriam, will astonish even the most optimistic. The number of manufac turing and mechanical establishments in the country is estimated at over 650,000, a gain of 116 per cent in ten years. "This form of our national wealth," says the director, "will increase with a marvelous rapidity. We are now reaching out to the four parts of the globe for markets, American ingenuity and ability showing themselves in this determination to take the markets from our competitors in the world's trade." More than doubling the number of manufacturing plants in a decade is a record little short of marvelous. If an eloquent argument in favor of the Dingley law and the McKinley administration, under both of which the advance has been chiefly sus figures.

A YOUNG MAN WITH GRIT.

Arthur L. Cabanne, a society favorite of St. Louis, is a grimy apprentice in a foundry. He has just taken the position and announced his determination to stick to it. Whether he will maintain his present social prominence is another question; but evidently that is not worrying the young man. Arthur L. Cabanne, the news dispatches tell us, was not born to a heritage of poverty, but to one of affluence among the aristocracy. Tired of being a butterfly of fashion, he has decided to learn the steel business and learn it from the bottom to the top. Therefore he is at the bottom now, serving as a molder's helper and working 12 hours a day for $1.80. He expects to spend five years learning age, although much better at the the practical side of the business he time of writing. This is the third Lee Crawford, a seven-year-old boy, lyn flat with a baby and a colored servproposes to follow. He will probably not look so handsome nor will his hands be as soft and white as when he was doing nothing more arduous than leading cotillions, but all the world whose respect is worth having will respect him more. The chances are 10 to 1 that he will be healthier and happier while making himself a useful member of society than he ever was in the days when he was altogether useless. We don't know Arthur L. Cabanne, but we admire his grit and wish his example were more extensively followed.

FRENCHMEN IN TERROR.

France is menaced and there is excitement among the frog-eaters. They are confronted by what they call the "American peril." It does not paralyze them, but threatens to paralyze ly of a thoughtful disposition and on their industries. The American peril one occasion came across a bank, or is the French name for American push wall, which was easy enough to leap and enterprise, which are felt more off, but there was greater difficulty in and more each year throughout the civilized world. ed in 1897. Although young, it has already made its influence widely felt. Its object is "to promote reverence for and prevent the desecration of the flag of our country," and to secure 'the widest possible recognition of the day, and a general and patriotic celebration." Congress on June 14, 1777. enacted the first law providing for an American flag. It is a country great beyond the dreams of the fathers over which that flag now floats. What the flag signifies cannot be brought to the attention of the youth of the nation too often, and therefore flag day celebrations deserve to be encouraged and popularized.

James A. Herne was only an actor, and many affect to despise his calling. Yet he made the world laugh and weep, and not a few will maintain that he made the world better. Certainly he never produced a play that was not as free from contamination as the purest mountain air. There was a moral in all his plays, and their phenomenal success proves that the theater-going public needs not to be fed on smut in order to be satisfied. If all plays were like "Shore Acres" and all actors like James A. Herne the problem of elevating the stage would never need to be discussed.

Mrs. Susan Lloyd Bailey, of Atlantic City, followed the scriptural advice, "Train up a child." The child is now 21 and she 37 and she announces that she is about to take him for a husband. Miss Bailey probably knows what sort of a husband she is getting, and that is a great deal more than is known to many women who marry younger.

William J. Bryan, who could not make a living as an attorney even in Nebraska, where the legal standard is not very high, now assumes to dictate to the supreme court of the United States what is law. Self-conceit and brazen effrontery have seldom carried a man to a more ridiculous length.

William J. Bryan would like a battle with the supreme court. Supposing that body should unbend its dignity far enough to give him one, it requires no prophet to predict the out-

A Tricky Dog.

Not long ago a very fat spaniel was introduced into the house where a fox terrier had always been the master. The latter was told, however, to behave well to the newcomer and not to bully him. So the two seemed fairly friendly and in the end got in the habit of taking short rambles together.

However, the fox terrier was evidentreturning. The fox terrier sprang down the bank and enticed his heavy companion to follow, with the result

A MARVELOUS GROWTH.

Director of the Census William R Marriam, commenting on the statistics of 1900, as far as compiled, says he is most impressed with the tremendous industrial advance made since 1890. The result of the census of manufacturers, according to Mr. Marriam, will astonish even the most optimistic. The number of manufacturing and mechanical establishments in the country is estimated at over 650,000, a gain of 116 per cent in ten years. "This form of our national wealth." says the director, "will increase with a marvelous rapidity. We are now reaching out to the four parts of the globe for markets, American ingenuity and ability showing themselves in this determination to take the markets from our competitors in the world's trade." More than doubling the number of manufacturing plants in a decade is a record little short of marvelous. If an eloquent argument in favor of the Dingley law and the McKinley administration, under both of which the advance has been chiefly made, is wanted, behold it in the census figures.

A YOUNG MAN WITH GRIT.

Arthur L. Cabanne, a society favorite of St. Louis, is a grimy apprentice in a foundry. He has just taken the position and announced his determination to stick to it. Whether he will maintain his present social prominence is another question; but evidently that is not worrying the young man. Arthur L. Cabanne, the news dispatches tell us, was not born to a heritage of poverty, but to one of affluence among the aristocracy. Tired of being a butterfly of fashion, he has decided to learn the steel business and learn it from the bottom to the top. Therefore he is at the bottom now, serving as a molder's helper and Queenstown and states that he was Lee Crawford, an East End Lad, Gave working 12 hours a day for $1.80. He very ill at the beginning of the voy. expects to spend five years learning age, although much better at the the practical side of the business he time of writing. This is the third proposes to follow. He will probably not look so handsome nor will his hands be as soft and white as when he was doing nothing more arduous than leading cotillions, but all the world whose respect is worth having will respect him more. The chances are 10 to 1 that he will be healthier and happier while making himself a useful member of society than he ever was in the days when he was altogether useless. We don't know Arthur L. Cabanne, but we admire his grit and wish his example were more extensively followed.

FRENCHMEN IN TERROR.

France is menaced and there is excitement among the frog-eaters. They are confronted by what they call the "American peril." It does not paralyze them, but threatens to paralyze their industries. The American peril is the French name for American push and enterprise, which are felt more and more each year throughout the civilized world. The only way for France to escape injury is to stop shouting and gesticulating and get to work. America has escaped numerous perils of the sort that now terrifies France by sensibly pursuing that method. In fact, America has got rich by attending to her own business.

ed in 1897. Although young, it has already made its influence widely felt. Its object is "to promote reverence for and prevent the desecration of the flag of our country," and to secure the widest possible recognition of the day, and a general and patriotic celebration." Congress on June 14, 1777, enacted the first law providing for an American flag. It is a country great beyond the dreams of the fathers over which that flag now floats. What the flag signifies cannot be brought to the attention of the youth of the nation too often, and therefore flag day celebrations deserve to be encouraged and popularized.

James A. Herne was only an actor and many affect to despise his calling. Yet he made the world laugh and weep, and not a few will maintain that he made the world better. Certainly he never produced a play that was not as free from contamination as the purest mountain air. There was a moral in all his plays, and their phenomenal success proves that the theater-going public needs not to be fed on smut in order to be satisfied. If all plays were like "Shore Acres" and all actors like James A. Herne the problem of elevating the stage would never need to be discussed.

Mrs. Susan Lloyd Bailey, of Atlantic City, followed the scriptural advice, "Train up a child." The child is now 21 and she 37 and she announces that she is about to take him for a husband. Miss Bailey probably knows what sort of a husband she is getting, and that is a great deal more than is known to many women who marry younger.

A Tricky Dog.

Not long ago a very fat spaniel was introduced into the house where a fox terrier had always been the master. The latter was told, however, to behave well to the newcomer and not to bully him. So the two seemed fairly friendly and in the end got in the habit of taking short rambles together.

However, the fox terrier was evidently of a thoughtful disposition and on one occasion came across a bank, or wall, which was easy enough to leap off, but there was greater difficulty in returning. The fox terrier sprang down the bank and enticed his heavy companion to follow, with the result that the latter could not get back, while the former, by reason of his greater activity, was easily able to do.

Now the terrier saw his opportunity. returned home and cruelly left his companion lamenting. Never did the former seem happier or gayer than on that day when he had once more the sole run of the house, and le sulked when later on the spaniel had been found, assisted up the wall and brought

Not long ago a very fat spaniel was introduced into the house where a fox terrier had always been the master. The latter was told, however, to behave well to the newcomer and not to bully him. So the two seemed fairly friendly and in the end got in the habit of taking short rambles together.

However, the fox terrier was evidently of a thoughtful disposition and on wall, which was easy enough to leap off, but there was greater difficulty in returning. The fox terrier sprang down the bank and enticed his heavy companion to follow, with the result that the latter could not get back, while the former, by reason of his greater activity, was easily able to do.

Now the terrier saw his opportunity, returned home and cruelly left his companion lamenting. Never did the former seem happier or gayer than on that day when he had once more the sole run of the house, and le sulked when later on the spaniel had been found, assisted up the wall and brought Senator McLaurin Says Patriotism Alone Actuates Him.

Columbia, S. C., June 4.—Senator McLaurin's letter withdrawing his resignation was received by the governor.

He says he withdraws his resignation because of the patriotic appeal made by Governor McSweeney that the interests of the state can best be served by the avoidance of a bitter campaign this summer. McLaurin says he realizes that in a fight with 293-2tawk-tf the real issue and wishes it distinctly understood that he retains his commission only because of patriotic reasons, and will continue to act without regard to the mandate of bosses for what he considers the best political and material interests of the people of South Carolina.

Senator Tillman will now be forced probably speak in the state wherever McLaurin does this summer.

REVISE THE CREED.

Names of Men Added To Committe By Moderator Minton,

AT PITTSBURG ON JUNE 18.

The Place and Time Selected For the First Meeting-Old and New Members of the Presbyterian General Assembly Committee.

Philadelphia, June 4.—Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, received a telegram from Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, the moderator, announcing that all of the members of the committee appointed to revise the confession of faith had accepted and would serve. Pursuant to Dr. Minton's instructhe first meeting of the revison commitee to be held at Pittsburg, June 18. Resolutions adopted at the recent general assembly increased the membership of the committee to 21, continuing the members of the old committee and electing Dr. Minton chair man. The new members are:

Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, synod of California; Rev. Dr. John Dewitt, synod of New Jersey; Rev. Dr. Ross Stevenson, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat, synod of Indiana; Rev. Dr. S. B. McCormick, synod of Iowa; Hon. John W. Foster, synod of Baltimore, and Charles T. Thompson, synod of Minnesota.

Following are the members of the old committee:

Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, synod of Minois; Rev. Dr. S. J. Nicolls, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Fisher, synod of Indiana; Rev. Dr. William McKibbin, and Rev. Dr. S. P. Sprecher, synod of Ohio; Rev. Dr. George B. Stewart and John E. Parsons, synod of New York; Rev. Dr. Henry Vandyke, synod of New Jersey; Hon. John M. Harlan, synod of Baltimore; Hon. Daniel R. Noyes, synod of Minnesota; E. W. C. Humphrey, synod of Kentucky; Misha A. Fraser, synod of Michigan, and Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey and Dr. William R. Crabbe, synod of Pennsylvania.

Pittsburg, June 4.—The Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly has appointed the six additional members of the committee to prepare a statement of Presbyterian doctrine. He has sent on the list of names to Philadelphia to the stated clerk of the assembly, the Rev. Dr. William Henry Roberts, who was made secrewill notify the newly appointed men, and, if they acce. their names will then be given to the public. The committee will meet at an early date, probably at Saratoga Springs. The full expenses of the committee are paid out of the treasury of the general assembly.

Dr. Minton addressed the of the Presbyterian ministers Monday morning on Jonathan Edwards. There was a large attendance at the meeting. The paper was a learned exposition of Dr. Edwards' theological views. Many out-of-town ministers were present. Dr. Minton held that Dr. Edwards was the father of congregational theology in the country, but that his views were held today more faithfully in Princeton than among the Berkshire hills. He thought Dr. Edwards combined in a remarkable degree profound intellectuality and profound spirituality.

DIVORCE FOR TWO CAUSES.

Reformed Presbyterians Take a Firm Stand on the Question-Session Is Nearing an End.

Pittsburg, June 4.-The Reformed Presbyterian synod yesterday listened to reports of the condition of the various presbyteries and church extension. A special report favoring the payment of a $2,000 deficit in the salaries of mine pastors of weak congregations was referred to a committee. synod took a determined stand on the divorce question by adopting a resoaution for presentation to the commissioners of uniform state laws urging that divorces be granted only for infidelity and such willful desertion as admits of no remedy. Dr. David McAllister, pastor of the Eighth Street church, submitted his resigruation as financial agent of the National Reform association, ill health prompting his action. The resignathen was accepted, and Rev. R. C. Wylle, of Wilkinsburg, will succeed him. The report of the Reform association was heard, and discussion of its recommendations, all of which were of a minor character, occupied the greater portion of the day.

The evening session was devoted to a conference on missions. Several addresses on the scope of evangelis-tic work were made. Rev. William Edwards, son of Jonathan Edwards, called attention to the work of the American Bible society. He made a plea for a systematic colportage in America, where this method of mistion work is so neglected.

The synod expects to complete its work and adjourn tomorrow. Syracuse, N. Y., will probably be chosen as the next place for holding the synodical meeting. An invitation has been extended from that city.

the Clayton-Bulwer Convention at the Next Session-Tells Why the Treaty Is No Longer Binding-Great Britain Warned In Time.

afternoon to Yale university, at New Haven, on rules governing treaties and if at the next session of the United States congress the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850 was abrogated.

"The time has come for the abrogation of that treaty," he continued. "Changed conditions from those that tions, Dr. Roberts issued a call for existed half a century ago, when that treaty was made, may affect treaty stipulations and would be sufficient authority for a nation to terminate a treaty. When the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was made, which gave to a private corporation the right to construct a canal through the isthmus of Panama, this country had a population of 23,000,000. Now this country has a population of 76,000,000.

"The whole face of affairs has changed. From a nation with the greatest part of its population on the Atlantic coast the growth has increased a hundredfold on the Pacific coast, and this country has grown into a world power. It is idle to contend that this nation should be held to the provisions of a treaty made half a century ago.

"The rejection of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty by Great Britain as amended by the senate of the United States simply throws this country back upon the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The maintenance of the Monroe doctrine demands that this treaty should be abrogated. One of the great questions involved is, Shall the United States have the right to exclude from passage through this canal any and all hostile powers?

"President Hayes in a message to congress took the ground that the canal should be under American control. President Garfield was practically of the same mind. Secretary Blaine entertained the same view. The United States could no more allow a hostile nation to pass its forces through this canal than it should be allowed to send troops through this country over the tary of the committee. Dr. Roberts railroads of the country. President Arthur believed as did Blaine and his predecessors.

"From Grant to Cleveland there is an unbroken line of presidents and secretaries of state who held that this trolled by this country. The United ducing her as a star in this country, entirely new basis. It outrivals all should be an American canal and con-It is incompatible with the course of the United States that after it has expended millions of dollars in the construction of a canal it is still to be restricted to the treaty of 1850. No such action is contemplated by this

"Great Britain has had ample notice by correspondence, by the trend of the sentiment of this country, by the utterances of Secretaries Blaine and Frelinghuysen, by the expressions of congress, especially the senate of the United States, and by diplomatic exchanges that the United States will never be satisfied until the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is abrogated.

"We are not taking any advantage of Great Britain in this matter by springing a surprise on her. Every congress and every commission or committee that has had this matter under consideration, Secretary John Sherman and that conservative statesman, Senator Edmunds, have all taken the ground that this country should never surrender its rights in this affair and that the canal should be under the control of the United States and practically that the treaty is no longer binding on the United States.

"This country has determined that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty should not obstruct its progress on that canal, nor is it under any obligation not to construct the canal without regard to the treaty of 1850. The action of the United States senate in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is notice sufficient to Great Britain of the feeling of this country, and the congress of the United States need have no fear after such action that Great Britain hasn't had ample notice should the next congress decide upon the abrogation of the treaty of 1850.

"The United States is a faith observing country in the matter of treaties. As much cannot be said of other nations, Great Britain included. The reluctance of this country in carrying forward its plans about the canal has been due to the hope that England would accept the Hay-Pauncefote freaty as amended by the United States senate. The hope is gone, and the United States must now go ahead and declare the Clayton-Bulwer treaty terminated. Its best interests demand such action. This government can declare itself under no obligation to any power. The time has come to abrogate the treaty."

Yet, despite all this, it seems to be doing some business in London, which brings us back the joke which Mr. Frohman is having ticulars and all necessary information at their expense.

William A. Brady, the indefatigable theatrical manager, is reported to have declared that the principal ambition of his life is to bring about the recognition of his wife, Grace George, as a star of the first magnitude. He declares that, in his opinion, she is possessed of ability of a high order and that it will be his life work to discover the exact line of work to which she is best suited. This declaration on Mr. Brady's part has elicited from certain "smart" dramatic critics any number of caustic allusions to the beauties of connubial blindness, but the fact nevertheless remains that when Miss George shall be given exactly the right nearly as good work as any of what eral historical characters which Miss George could admirably depict, and it and manager has not already hit upon on the south side of Thompson avenue one of these as a vehicle for her exploitation.

Names of Men Added To Committe By Moderator Minton,

PITTSBURG ON JUNE 18.

The Place and Time Selected For the First Meeting-Old and New Members of the Presbyterian General

Assembly Committee.

Philadelphia, June 4.—Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, received a telegram from Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, the moderator, announcing that all of the members of the committee appointed to revise the confession of faith had accepted and would serve.

Pursuant to Dr. Minton's instructhe first meeting of the revison commitee to be held at Pittsburg, June 18.

Resolutions adopted at the recent general assembly increased the membership of the committee to 21, continuing the members of the old committee and electing Dr. Minton chairman. The new members are:

Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, synod of California; Rev. Dr. John Dewitt. synod of New Jersey; Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat, synod of Indiana; Rev. Dr. S. B. McCormick, synod of lowa; Hon. John W. Foster, synod of Baltimore, and Charles T. Thompson, synod of Minnesota.

Following are the members of the old committee:

Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, synod of Minois; Rev. Dr. S. J. Nicolls, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Fisher, McKibbin, and Rev. Dr. S. P. Sprecher, synod of Ohio; Rev. Dr. George B. Stewart and John E. Parsons, synod of New York; Rev. Dr. Henry Vandyke, synod of New Jersey; Hon. John M. Harlan, synod of Baltimore; Hon. Daniel R. Noyes, synod of Minnesota; E. W. C. Humphrey, synod of Kentucky; Edisha A. Fraser, synod of Michigan, and Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey and Or. William R. Crabbe, synod of Pennsylvania.

Pittsburg, June 4.—The Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly has appointed the six additional members of the committee to prepare a statement of Presbyterian doctrine. He has sent on the list of names to Philadelphia to the stated clerk of the assembly, the Rev. Dr. William Henry Roberts, who was made secretary of the committee. Dr. Roberts will notify the newly appointed men, and, if they acce, their names will then be given to the public. The committee will meet at an early date, probably at Saratoga Springs. The full expenses of the committee are paid out of the treasury of the general assembly.

of the Presbyterian ministers Monday morning on Jonathan Edwards. There was a large attendance at the meeting. The paper was a learned exposition of Dr. Edwards' theological views. Many out-of-town ministers were present. Dr. Minton held that Dr. Edwards was the father of congregational theology in the country, but that his views were held today more faithfully in Princeton than among the Berkshire hills. He thought Dr. Edwards combined in a remarkable degree profound intellectuality and profound spirituality.

DIVORCE FOR TWO CAUSES.

Reformed Presbyterians Take a Firm Stand on the Question-Session Is Nearing an End.

Pittsburg, June 4 .- The Reformed Presbyterian synod yesterday listened to reports of the condition of the various presbyteries and church extension. A special report favoring the payment of a $2,000 deficit in the salaries of mine pastors of weak congregations was referred to a committee. The synod took a determined stand on the divorce question by adopting a resolution for presentation to the commissioners of uniform state laws urging that divorces be granted only for infidelity and such willful desertion as admits of no remedy. Dr. David McAllister, pastor of the Eighth Street church, submitted his resigmation as financial agent of the National Reform association. ill health prompting his action. The resignation was accepted, and Rev. R. C. Wylle, of Wilkinsburg, will succeed him. The report of the Reform association was heard, and discussion of its recommendations, all of which were of a minor character, occupied the greater portion of the day.

The evening session was devoted to a conference on missions. Several addresses on the scope of evangelis-tic work were made. Rev. William Edwards, son of Jonathan Edwards, called attention to the work of the American Bible society. He made a plea for a systematic colportage in America, where this method of mistion work is so neglected.

The synod expects to complete its work and adjourn tomorrow. Syracuse, N. Y., will probably be chosen as the next place for holding the synodical meeting. An invitation has been extended from that city.

Names of Men Added To Committe By Moderator Minton,

PITTSBURG ON JUNE 18.

The Place and Time Selected For the First Meeting-Old and New Members of the Presbyterian General

Assembly Committee.

H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, received a telegram from Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, the moderator, announcing that all of the members of the committee appointed to revise the confession of faith had accepted and would serve.

Pursuant to Dr. Minton's instructions, Dr. Roberts issued a call for the first meeting of the revison commitee to be held at Pittsburg, June 18.

Resolutions adopted at the recent general assembly increased the membership of the committee to 21, continuing the members of the old committee and electing Dr. Minton chairman. The new members are:

Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, synod of California; Rev. Dr. John Dewitt, synod of New Jersey; Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat, synod of Indiana; Rev. Dr. S. B. McCormick, synod of lowa; Hon. John W. Foster, synod of Baltimore, and Charles T. Thomp-son, synod of Minnesota.

Folowing are the members of the old committee:

Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, synod of Minois; Rev. Dr. S. J. Nicolls, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Fisher, synod of Indiana; Lev. Dr. William McKibbin, and Rev. Dr. S. P. Sprecher, synod of Ohio; Rev. Dr. George B. Stewart and John E. Parsons, synod of New York; Rev. Dr. Henry Vandyke, synod of New Jersey; Hon. John M. Harlan, synod of Baltimore; Hon. Daniel R. Noyes, synod of Minnesota; E. W. C. Humphrey, synod of Kentucky; Misha A. Fraser, synod of Michigan, and Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey and

Dr. William R. Crabbe, synod of Pennsylvania. Pittsburg, June 4.—The Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly has appointed the six additional members of the committee to prepare a statement of Presbyterian doctrine. He has sent on the list of names to Philadelphia to the stated clerk of the assembly, the Rev. Dr. William Henry Roberts, who was made secretary of the committee. Dr. Roberts will notify the newly appointed men, and, if they access, their names will then be given to the public. The committee will meet at an early date, probably at Saratoga Springs. The full expenses of the committee are paid out of the treasury of the general assembly.

Dr. Minton addressed the meeting of the Presbyterian ministers Monday morning on Jonathan Edwards. There was a large attendance at the meeting. The paper was a learned exposition of Dr. Edwards' theological views. Many out-of-town ministers were present. Dr. Minton held that Dr. Edwards was the father of congregational theology in the country, but that his views were held today more faithfully in Princeton than among the Berkshire hills. He thought Dr. Edwards combined in a remarkable degree profound intellectuality and profound spirituality.

DIVORCE FOR TWO CAUSES.

Reformed Presbyterians Take a Firm Stand on the Question-Session Is Nearing an End.

Pittsburg, June 4 .- The Reformed Presbyterian synod yesterday listened to reports of the condition of the various presbyteries and church extension. A special report favoring the payment of a $2,000 deficit in the salaries of mine pastors of weak congregations was referred to a committee. The synod took a determined stand on the divorce question by adopting a resolution for presentation to the commissioners of uniform state laws urging that divorces be granted only for infidelity and such willful desertion as admits of no remedy. Dr. David McAllister, pastor of the Eighth Street church, submitted his resigruation as financial agent of the National Reform association, ill health prompting his action. The resignathen was accepted, and Rev. R. C. Wylle, of Wilkinsburg, will succeed The report of the Reform assoesation was heard, and discussion of its recommendations, all of which were of a minor character, occupied the greater portion of the day.

The evening session was devoted to a conference on missions. Several addresses on the scope of evangelis-tic work were made. Rev. William Rev. William Edwards, son of Jonathan Edwards, called attention to the work of the American Bible society. He made & rplea for a systematic colportage in America, where this method of mistion work is so neglected.

The synod expects to complete its work and adjourn tomorrow. Syracuse, N. Y., will probably be chosen as the next place for holding the synodical meeting. An invitation has been extended from that city.

FOSTER ON THE CANAL.

Ex - Secretary Discusses the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty.

SAYS ENGLAND MUST YIELD TO US

Thinks That Congress Will Set Aside

the Clayton-Bulwer Convention at the Next Session-Tells Why the Treaty Is No Longer Binding-Great Britain Warned In Time.

Former Secretary of State John W. Foster in his final address the other afternoon to Yale university, at New Haven, on rules governing treaties and their termination expressed the opinion, says the New York Sun, that Great lack of business capacity, which is one Philadelphia, June 4.—Rev. Dr. W. Britain should not be one bit surprised if at the next session of the United States congress the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850 was abrogated.

"The time has come for the abrogation of that treaty," he continued. "Changed conditions from those that existed half a century ago, when that treaty was made, may affect treaty stipulations and would be sufficient authority for a nation to terminate a treaty. When the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was made, which gave to a private corporation the right to construct a canal through the isthmus of Panama, this country had a population of 23,000,000. Now this country has a population of 76,000,000.

"The whole face of affairs has changed. From a nation with the greatest part of its population on the Atlantic coast the growth has increased a hundredfold on the Pacific coast, and this country has grown into a world power. It is idle to contend that this nation should be held to the provisions of a treaty made half a century ago.

"The rejection of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty by Great Britain as amended by the senate of the United States simply throws this country back upon the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The maintenance of the Monroe doctrine demands that this treaty should be abrogated. One of the great questions involved is, Shall the United States have the right to exclude from passage through this canal any and all hostile

"President Hayes in a message to congress took the ground that the canal should be under American control. President Garfield was practically of the same mind. Secretary Blaine entertained the same view. The United States could no more allow a hostile nation to pass its forces through this canal than it should be allowed to send troops through this country over the railroads of the country. President Arthur believed as did Blaine and his predecessors.

"From Grant to Cleveland there is an unbroken line of presidents and secretaries of state who held that this should be an American canal and controlled by this country. The United States must have control over its use. It is incompatible with the course of the United States that after it has expended millions of dollars in the construction of a canal it is still to be restricted to the treaty of 1850. No such action is contemplated by this

"Great Britain has had ample notice by correspondence, by the trend of the sentiment of this country, by the utterances of Secretaries Blaine and Frelinghuysen, by the expressions of congress, especially the senate of the United States, and by diplomatic exchanges that the United States will never be satisfied until the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is abrogated.

"We are not taking any advantage of Great Britain in this matter by springing a surprise on her. Every congress and every commission or committee that has had this matter under consideration, Secretary John Sherman and that conservative statesman, Senator Edmunds, bave all taken the ground that this country should never surrender its rights in this affair and that the canal should be under the control of the United States and practically that the treaty is no longer binding on the United States.

"This country has determined that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty should not obstruct its progress on that canal, nor is it under any obligation not to construct the canal without regard to the treaty of 1850. The action of the United States senate in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is notice sufficient to Great Britain of the feeling of this country, and the congress of the United States need have no fear after such action that Great Britain hasn't had ample notice should the next congress decide upon the abrogation of the treaty of 1850. "The United States is a faith observing country in the matter of treaties. As much cannot be said of other nations, Great Britain included. The reluctance of this country in carrying forward its plans about the canal has been due to the hope that England would accept the Hay-Pauncefote freaty as amended by the United States senate. The hope is gone, and the United States must now go ahead and declare the Clayton-Bulwer treaty terminated. Its best interests demand such action. This government can declare itself under no obligation to any power. The time has come to abrogate the treaty."

Building In the Great Cities.

The building operations in April. 1901, in St. Louis are 25.57 per cent in excess of those of the same month of 1900. This is not nearly so large a relative gain as has been made in New York, Chicago and some of the other big cities, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, but the building expansion due to the World's fair has not yet be-

Although on its face the recent war between the White Rats and the Vaudeville Managers' association appears to have resulted in a victory for the former, the facts do not bear out remained true to the managers have in most cases all the dates they care to accept. This is a somewhat anomalous condition of affairs, due solely to the of the most striking characteristics of vaudeville "artists." When the fight had about worn itself out and the managers were seeking an excuse to make a graceful retreat, the Rats could easily have secured an agreement which would have served to protect those of their number who had been most prominent in the struggle. But they didn't think of that, and now a large number of the rodents find themselves in the tually have lost 100 per cent of it by reason of the fact that there is no longer a demand for their services.

Our English cousins are proverbially slow at "catching on" to a joke. That perhaps explains why they have taken Edna May seriously in her role as the "star" of "The Girl From Up There," which seems to have caught on in London. Miss May had made the one and only hit of her career as the Salvation Army lassie in "The Belle of New York." London went wild over her, and it was therefore perfectly natural that Mr. Frohman, having spent time and money and brain effort in introducing her as a star in this country. benefit from the enterprise by exploiting her in a city in which she had been a pronounced success, which, by the way, she most decidedly was not in New York. "The Girl From Up There" is really a senseless, vapid vehicle, and the quality of Miss May's work is not such as would tend to lessen the play's chances of failure. Yet, despite all this, it seems to be doing some business in London, which brings us back to the original proposition that the English people are unable to appreciate at their expense.

William A. Brady, the indefatigable theatrical manager, is reported to have declared that the principal ambition of his life is to bring about the recognition of his wife, Grace George, as a star of the first magnitude. He declares that, in his opinion, she is possessed of ability of a high order and that it will be his life work to discover the exact line of work to which she is best suited. This declaration on Mr. Brady's part has elicited from certain "smart" dramatic critics any number of caustic allusions to the beauties of connubial blindness, but the fact nevertheless remains that when Miss George shall be given exactly the right piece she will be able to show pretty nearly as good work as any of what we might call the "serious ingenues" eral historical characters which Miss George could admirably depict, and it one of these as a vehicle for her ex-

Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott have conquered New York city in the pres- ing. entation of "The Merchant of Venice." While it is a fact that some critics known and admired him in his extravaganza, comic opera, farce comedy and comedy days, there are other critics who respect their work and would reputations. The general opinion, howprobable that his long reported intention to attempt the role of Richard III will be put into execution. OCTAVUS COHEN.

An oyster is ready for market in about five years. The bivalves have so much to contend with that perhaps only one in 2,000,000 lives to grow up

I have recently conversed with a number of managers concerning the theatrical season just closed, and it their statements are to be relied upon the late crash in Wall street was brought about by the stringency in the money market due to the fact that these particular managers had about all the coin in this realm snugly stowed away in safe deposit vaults. The trouble is, however, that these men are distinctly not to be relied upon. In fact, they are never to be taken seriously when discussing the receipts of their own attractions.

There are a few managers, though. who, incredible as it may appear, have an unaccountable tendency toward truth telling. One of these told me recently that since 1890 he had never had but two seasons which were poorer from his standpoint than the one of 1900-1. He says that while the season opened nicely business began to fall off terribly just before the election. While that was expected, it was also anticipated that after that event receipts would increase. But they didn't, and that is why so many little companies came to grief early in January. They struggled along from town to town, looking for the resumption of theatrical prosperity, which never came, and finally were obliged to give up the fight.

In New York things have not been as good as they might have been; but, as I have previously taken occasion to observe, the shows which were deserving of patronage, as a rule, got it, while some which were unworthy from almost every standpoint were treated much more generously than they deserved.

The experience of Millie James demonstrates that, no matter how talented an actress may be, unless she has the good fortune to be assigned to a role for which she is peculiarly fitted her upward climb on the ladder of fame is bound to involve a lot of hard work and many discouragements.

Miss James when William A. Brady determined to produce Clyde Fitch's drama, "Lovers' Lane," was cast for the role of Simplicity Johnson. No one suspected that the part could be made to stand out, and it is probable that when she received the manuscript and indeed up to the time of the first performance Miss James regarded the role with only faint interest. But the first night came, and Miss James' efforts were vociferously applauded. The next day the little woman found that, thanks to the critics, she was famous. She had signed with Mr. Brady for the season, and naturally the fact that she had made a big hit did not temporarily affect her salary, but it is safe to assume that when she "fixes" for next season her hebdomadal stipend will be least twice as great as it now is purchase of the Atlas steamships the Indeed it has been rumored that sevthe advisability of having a piece written to order for Miss James and sending her out as a star. Just a little oil on the engine at the right time may mean the difference between life and death to the passengers and crew. What oil is to the friction of the delicate parts of the engine, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is to the delicate organs of the body. It eases their labor, prevents the loss of power and waste energy caused by friction. Many a man who was all run down, whose limbs ached when he walked, whose back ached when he laid down, who breathed with difficulty, and coughed constantly, has been perfectly cured by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies the blood, strengthens the stomach and heals weak lungs.

Accept no sub-stitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," nor any medicine called "just as good" by the

Mr. Chas, Hunwick, of Lenox. Macomb Co.

Golden Medical Discovery right along. I can now walk quite well with a cane, and hope to throw even that away before long, and as I have had to use crutches for nearly two years, I think I am doing fine. I do not cough now and I can sleep like a school boy. You must know that I have been treated in two hospitals and by three doctors besides, and received no benefit; so I think your medicine the only medicine for me."

Mr. Gaston said the evidence of the engineers who testified in the defendant's behalf, was of little or no significance, because of the fact that their duties could easily be of a different nature regarding the keeping of records than those of an engineer in the employ of the city of

Attorney Brookes began his argument by saying that the law introduced by Mr. Gaston had no bearing on the case whatever against Mr. George. He said that in the 18 years is expected to be present, as there is his client had worked in this city and vicinity he had kept his data in the books which the city was attempting to take from him. Mr. Brookes further stated that the plaintiff was ask ing Mr. George to surrender data which he had collected years before he had ever gone into the employ of the city, and told the jury that a decision from them which would compel him to relinquish his private note books meant that the defendant would be virtually robbed of his life's labor.

The attorney read from the same Mrs. Will Reed, Mrs. A. G. Mason, Miss statute book which Mr. Gaston had quoted from, explaining what the law regarded as being public data. He showed that memoranda collected for private purposes was not considered public records, and that for that reason his client was asking for nothing only that which he had a perfect right to possess. The attorney ridiculed the statement of Mr. Gaston that Mr. George had no right to hold copies of the city records, adding that any person who so desired had authority to take copies of any and all records in the office of the city engineer. Mr. Brookes finished his plea by saying that the plaintiff had asked for the benefit of Mr. George's lifetime experience when suit was entered against him. He read law to substantiate his claim, stating that if the defendant did take data belonging to the city he did so unintentionally, but could not be compelled to release it. He said that a decision of the case in the plaintiff's favor meant that a stigma would be cast on Mr. George's good name, inasmuch as the plaintiff's counsel had intimated he had been guilty of a

He also read Moore, of Sixth street, was summoned the law defining what was considered to be public property and contended that all drawings, plans, note books and other data compiled by the defendant while employed by the city unquestionably belonged to the city and not Mr. George. Mr. Gaston said the evidence of the engineers who testified in the defendant's behalf, was of little or no significance, because of the fact that their duties could easily be of a different nature regarding the engineer in the employ of the city of Attorney Brookes began his arguduced by Mr. Gaston had no bearing his client had worked in this city and vicinity he had kept his data in the books which the city was attempting to take from him. Mr. Brookes further stated that the plaintiff was asking Mr. George to surrender data which he had collected years before he had ever gone into the employ of the city, and told the jury that a decision from them which would compel him to relinquish his private note books meant that the defendant would be virtually robbed of his life's labor.

The attorney read from the same statute book which Mr. Gaston had Hattie Thomas, Miss Margaret Thom- quoted from, explaining what the law as and Miss Martha Porter left yester- regarded as being public data. The attorney ridiculed the statement of Mr. Gaston that Mr. George had no right to hold copies of the city records, adding that any person who so desired had authority to take copies of any and all records in the office of the city engineer. Mr. Brookes finished his plea by saying that the plaintiff had asked for the benefit of Mr. George's lifetime experience when suit was entered against him. He read law to substantiate his claim, stating that if the defendant did take data belonging to the city he did so unintentionally, but could not be compelled to release it. He said that a decision of the case in the plaintiff's favor meant that a stigma would be cast on Mr. George's good name, inasmuch as the plaintiff's counsel had intimated he had been guilty of a criminal offense. Mr. Gaston took exception to Mr. Brookes' statement that he had accused Mr. George of crime. Seven Innings Only Were Played And Chester Was Clearly Outclassed.

Seven to 1 in favor of the Crockery City was the score in the seven-inning game which that team played with the Chester club at Rock Springs park yesterday.

Chester was "not in it," and sensational features and brilliant playing were lacking. Chester piled up errors numerously; East Liverpool showed Another Wellsville Saloon Keeper itself weak in batting. Although 8 hits were secured in yesterday's game not one was for more than one base. The game began late and this was annoying to the spectators.

Fined-Decision in a Case Appealed From an East Liverpool Justice Court-Other Court News.

Lisbon, June 4.—(Special.)—Charles ment. He was convicted of attempting to take the life of 'Squire Andrew Miller, of Bayard, by shooting him. Although Attorney J. M. Dickinson made a strong plea to the court in his behalf, asking leniency, Judge Hole was not so inclined and sentenced the prisoner to 12 years in the penitentiary. The limit is 20 years. Judge Hole told Staub that, in his opinion, there are many sad truths in connection with the case, one of which was that the prisoner's aged father was compelled to go upon the stand and testify to having heard him saying: What an easy thing it would be to go over to the Miller farm and kill the old man, scare the women and get their money." "It is only by luck and the interference of Providence," said Judge Hole, "that you do not stand here convicted of murder in the first

Staub had nothing to say in his own behalf, but protested his innocence to the last, even when told by his counsel that rather than register on the records of the court that which is not true, he had better spend his entire life in the penitentiary. ROAD AND BRIDGE BAD

Residents of California Hollow About to Demand Relief From Council.

The residents of California hollow and the upper part of West End have a crow to pick with the city solons at their next meeting, and they are making preparations to go about the task with a vengeance. Their complaint is concerning the bridge across Carpenter's run on Sheridan avenue, and the condition of the road just west of this bridge. The chief complaint is the absence of an electric light at this bridge where it is needed perhaps as bad as any other place in the city.

The hollow here is very dark, and affords an excellent hiding place for footpads. For this reason the ladies who reside on either side of California hollow are afraid to pass over the bridge after night, and have sent a request to their councilman to have a bors that she would leave today for light placed here, and he will probably present the matter at the next meeting the of council. Their other kick is with the street committee. About a hundred yards of the road on the other side of the bridge is entirely impassable for buggies and almost impassable for wagons. They claim that the street committee have authority and should have had the street repaired 4 a. m. to 11 p. m. long ago, but have simply let the matopposition will be met with in council, as the need of these two improvements

The management was wild, but there was no one to take his place, and so they had to chance it with him as Faust. All went well until they came to that scene where Faust, in leaving Marguerite, crosses the stage and then, giving way to an impulse, rushes back and kisses Marguerite yet once again ere taking his departure.

Faust on this occasion got to the other side of the stage all right, but trouble arose when he tried to get back. Marguerite sits in the window of her cottage, and Faust comes back and kisses her through the window. Faust measured the distance with a wabbling eye, but made a start when his cue was given. Then he seemed to lose control of himself. How "David Harum" Came to Be Written.

An interesting little anecdote is told about how "David Harum" came to be written. It is rather pathetic. It seems that Mr. Wescott, the author, was the kind of man who could do pretty much anything-paint a picture, plan a house or compose a sonata-but he had never made much money, so when he became ill and realized that he might not live long and would leave his family with little or no money he was desperate.

"Write a book," suggested a friend and neighbor to him one day when they were talking over the situation. "I did make an attempt at it once," answered Mr. Wescott. "I tried a love

ANOTHER "REAL" AMERICAN Dr. Naylor Creates One In His Novel

"Ralph Marlowe." The present literary year is remarkable for the number of "first books" that seem to have caught the popular fancy. Prominent among the new authors who are achieving success is Dr. stricken with apoplexy and is in a pre- James Ball Naylor of Ohio. The title of his book is "Ralph Marlowe." Although this is not the doctor's first book, it is the first that has attracted wide attention. It is a simple, homely tale of American life, and the chief character is one of the procession of

"native born Americans" that have crossed the literary stage since the success of "David Harum." In this case he is a grumpy country physician, possessed, however, of a kindly spirit.

Dr. Naylor has taken as the scene of his book an Ohio country town. There is little to the plot of the book, its main company with $500,000 capital stock. interest being contributed by the quaint sayings of the characters. Dr. Naylor describes interestingly the modes of living of some of the people to be found in little towns in the Buckeye State.

The titular hero of the book is the drug clerk of the physician. Another entertaining character is the doctor's man of all work, whose bits of wisdom seem born of a good knowledge of hu-Tucker, "there's somethin funny 'bout people argyin-dogged if there ain't! Well, sir, it's just like this: It's purty toler'ble hard for two men to be on opposite sides in an argyment and both be right, but it's most danged easy fer 'em both to be wrong.'

The author of "Ralph Marlowe" is a native of Ohio, 40 years of age. He was born in a log cabin and grew up on a farm. After attending the schools of the neighborhood young Naylor taught school for awhile and then attended a medical college at Columbus. ticed in Ohio, varying his labors with the writing of verses which have found their way into the newspapers and magazines. Dr. Naylor's verses have been published over the nom de plume "S. Q. Lapius." Dr. Naylor in referring to his first book can say of the life described in it, "All of which I have seen and the greater part of which I have been."

A FITTING TRIBUTE

A Citizen of East Liverpool Pays Well Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respectable citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before:

Mr. H. Thompson, of 306 Fourth street, presser at the D. E. McNicol pottery, and resident of East Liverpool for the past 45 years, says: 'During my campaign experiences between the years of '61 and '64 I contracted a weakness of the kidneys, and at intervals I had an aching pain across the small of my back and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down, and, in fact, could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at mediate relief and warded off the last attack."

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

Smart Gown Colors, Fabrics and Trimmings-Muslin Gowns.

The French gowns repeat this season the old combination of blue and violet, as they do also a certain cardinal red with a plum purple or with bishop's purple. White retains its supremacy in every one of its shades-old ivory, silver, pearl, cream and blue white, while the ecrus, gray whites and oatmeal shades figure in all the choicest fabrics which so abound.

Taffetas to be modish must be glossy, soft and pliable and of no weight at all. Light weight rules everything. Nothing with a heavy body or stiffness is to be thought of for dressy gowns.

Bareges are as sheer as mousseline de soie, and crepe de chines are quite as light and airy. Gauze and chambray rank next to tulles and mousseline in sheerness, for some mousselines exceed others in clear transparency. The charm of these plain, diaphanous fabrics is that if plisse they are still more lovely, and as we are to have plissage on everything this season skirt drapery will be graceful to a degree.

Black ribbon velvets now trim everything, reviving all the old 1850 styles of putting them on in even or graduated stripes or rings in tabs, straps, in zigzags, in Greek designs, in points and plaitings or basket work.

Tunics both short and full length, the former for visiting and street wear, the latter for full dress occasions, are met with frequently upon new gowns, and most graceful are they in the light spring materials.

It is to be noted that heavy ecru and yellow white passementerie laces lie

upon the bottom of skirts as if they were a separate flounce hanging over a plisse of the under silk lining and being sewed on by the upper edge only. From seven to nine inches wide are some of them. The gown materials so trimmed are usually bareges, voiles and crepe de chines or foulards in light shades.

Insetting of tucked taffeta is carried out in white upon a sheer white voile. The design consists of white disks embroidered with gold. A short bolero is trimmed with very small disks all over it. Elbow sleeves are joined to long lace ones fitting over the hand. High gold ribbon for the Albanian belt is wound about several times. This gown is to be worn with a white chip hat trimmed with a wreath of alder blossoms. It is broad of brim, its lining of maline folds, with bow of gold ribbon under the brim at the back, just perceptible. The ensemble suggested the blossoming month when it is to be worn at country wedding at the end of May by a matron of honor. The bridesmaids are to wear large white chip hats covered with broad wreaths of white hyacinths. Their gowns of white silk muslin are extremely simple, the skirts with plisse flounces, bodices having shoulder scarfs of the same knotted in front and made over white silk. High Albanian belts of gold ribbon give a charming glint of have the selection of this part of color. Sleeves are to the elbow, with long white gloves. Great bunches of forgetmenots have been decided upon for bouquets.

These attractive fashions and model are gleaned from Vogue.

Tomato Sauce.

To make a tomato sauce put into a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter and part of an onion sliced thin. Place the pan over the fire and cook until the onion is highly colored. Then stir in one tablespoonful of flour and keep stirring until it is frothy. Add two small cupfuls of tomatoes, half a dozen peppercorns, three cloves and one bay leaf. Cover the pan and let this mixture cook gently for 30 minutes. Season with salt and strain through a sieve. This is very nice with beef in almost every form.

Useful Little Wrinkles. Moisten the buttonholes of starched collars, wristbands or cuffs a little on the wrong side before attempting to button them or to insert cuff buttons, and the buttonholes will keep longer

When flatirons become rough or soiled, place a little fine salt on a paper and rub them back and forth over it. Put a little beeswax between two pieces of cloth and keep near the ironing table.

286-tf will usually remove it.

A MARVELOUS GROWTH.

Director of the Census William R Marriam, commenting on the statistics of 1900, as far as compiled, says he is most impressed with the tremendous industrial advance made since 1890. The result of the census of manufacturers, according to Mr. Marriam, will astonish even the most optimistic. The number of manufac turing and mechanical establishments in the country is estimated at over 650,000, a gain of 116 per cent in ten years. "This form of our national wealth," says the director, "will increase with a marvelous rapidity. We are now reaching out to the four parts of the globe for markets, American ingenuity and ability showing themselves in this determination to take the markets from our competitors in the world's trade." More than doubling the number of manufacturing plants in a decade is a record little short of marvelous. If an eloquent argument in favor of the Dingley law and the McKinley administration, under both day afternoon, having been ill only of which the advance has been chiefly since Friday. The arrangements for made, is wanted, behold it in the census figures.

A YOUNG MAN WITH GRIT.

Arthur L. Cabanne, a society favor ite of St. Louis, is a grimy apprentice in a foundry. He has just taken the position and announced his determination to stick to it. Whether he will maintain his present social prominence is another question; but evidently that is not worrying the young man. Arthur L. Cabanne, the news dispatches tell us, was not born to a heritage of poverty, but to one of affluence among the aristocracy. Tired of being a butterfly of fashion, he has decided to learn the steel business. and learn it from the bottom to the top. Therefore he is at the bottom working 12 hours a day for $1.80. He expects to spend five years learning the practical side of the business he proposes to follow. He will probably not look so handsome nor will his hands be as soft and white as when he was doing nothing more arduous than leading cotillions, but all the world whose respect is worth having will respect him more. The chances are 10 to 1 that he will be healthier and happier while making himself a useful member of society than he ever was in the days when he was altogether useless. We don't know Arthur L. Cabanne, but we admire his grit and wish his example were more extensively followed.

ed in 1897. Although young, it has already made its influence widely felt. Its object is "to promote reverence for and prevent the desecration of the flag of our country," and to secure 'the widest possible recognition of the day, and a general and patriotic celebration." Congress on June 14, 1777, enacted the first law providing for an American flag. It is a country great beyond the dreams of the fathers over which that flag now floats. What the flag signifies cannot be brought to the attention of the youth of the nation too often, and therefore flag day celebrations deserve to be encouraged and popularized.

James A. Herne was only an actor, and many affect to despise his calling. Yet he made the world laugh and weep, and not a few will maintain that he made the world better. Certainly he never produced a play that was not as free from contamination as the purest mountain air. There was a moral in all his plays, and their phenomenal success proves that the theater-going public needs not to be fed on smut in order to be satisfied. If all plays were like "Shore Acres" and all actors like James A. Herne the problem of elevating the stage would never need to be discussed.

Mrs. Susan Lloyd Bailey, of Atlantic City, followed the scriptural advice, "Train up a child." The child is now 21 and she 37 and she announces that she is about to take him for a husband. Miss Bailey probably knows what sort of a husband she is getting, and that is a great deal more than is known to many women who marry

William J. Bryan, who could not make a living as an attorney even in Nebraska, where the legal standard is not very high, now assumes to dictate to the supreme court of the United States what is law. Self-conceit and brazen effrontery have seldom carried a man to a more ridiculous length.

Zola and the Man With the Hoe.

Mr. Edwin Markham, writing with enthusiasm of Zola's new novel, "Labor," describes it as, "a panorama alive with motion, with passion, with every human interest. Zola's graphic, realistic strokes make us know the two towns (in which the scenes are laid) as we know our Thrums. It cannot fail to excite the interest of all readers. nia House-Ripper Law Amendments Introduced.

Harrisburg, June 4.- The Emery and Focht rapid transit bills passed first reading at last night's session of the house. They will be taken up today for second reading and Wednesday for third reading and final passage, under order of business reported by the rules committee.

The order of business at the afternoon session Monday was bills on second reading. The appropriation bills for the state and semi-state institutions passed this stage without objection.

The senate amendments to the Ferrebee company store bill and the Garner mine inspectors bill were con-

As amended, the Ferrebee bill levies a tax of 25 per cent on the face value of store orders, coupons. The Taylor, Lee & Smith baseball etc., issued by corporations, except creases the number of mine inspectors from 8 to 16 adn provides for their election by the people, instead of having them appointed by the governor.

Mr. Henderson, of Allegheny, inin the dipping house at the National, troduced a bill covering amendments is off duty on account of her mother's to the act governing cities of the second class, commonly known as the Pittsburg "ripper." The amend ments are intended to give the city recorder the power formerly within the jurisdiction of the mayor, allow directors of public works and public safety to appoint all subordinates without approval of councils, gives councils the power to prescribe the bonds to be given by city officers, requires appointments to be made by reason of fitness of the appointee and not for political purposes, and authorizing the delinquent tax collec-

Two Men Accused of Selling Ohio State Bar Examination Questions.

Columbus, O., June 4.-Clay M.

Runyan and Bert M. Steele were arrested at the instigation of the attorney general and taken before the supreme court for alleged contempt. The men are accused of having socured copies of the questions that had been prepared for the state bar examinations, to be held today, and having offered to sell them to students at the University of Michigan, University of Cincinnati, Western Reserve uni versity and Ada Normal school. Runyan was formerly an employe in the office of the state commissioner of railroads and Steele is an employe or a local printing company. It is alleged that Runyan induced Steele to secure proofs of the questions and that the former agreed to sell them and the proceeds were to be divided. When arrested they pleaded not guilty and were placed under bond of $500 each for their appearance be fore the supreme court today, when they will be given a hearing. The penalty for the offense with which the men are charged is an indefinite sentence in the penitentiary. A new set of examination questions have been prepared for the examinaons, which will be taken by a class 2 265 today.

Names of Men Added To Committe By Moderator Minton,

PITTSBURG ON JUNE 18.

The Place and Time Selected For the First Meeting-Old and New Members of the Presbyterian General Assembly Committee.

H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, received a telegram from Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, the moderator, announcing that all of the members of the committee appointed to revise the confession of faith had accepted and would serve.

Pursuant to Dr. Minton's instructions, Dr. Roberts issued a call for the first meeting of the revison commitee to be held at Pittsburg, June 18. Resolutions adopted at the recent general assembly increased the membership of the committee to 21, continuing the members of the old committee and electing Dr. Minton chairman. The new members are:

Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, synod of California; Rev. Dr. John Dewitt. synod of New Jersey; Rev. Dr. J Ross Stevenson, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat, synod of Indiana; Rev. Dr. S. B. McCormick, synod of Iowa; Hon. John W. Foster, synod of Baltimore, and Charles T. Thomp-son, synod of Minnesota.

Following are the members of the old committee:

Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, synod of Minois; Rev. Dr. S. J. Nicolls, synod of Missouri; Rev. Dr. D. W. Fisher, synod of Indiana; Cev. Dr. William McKibbin, and Rev. Dr. S. Sprecher, synod of Ohio; Rev. Pittsburg, June 4.—The Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly has appointed the six additional members of the committee to prepare a statement of Presbyterian doctrine. He has sent on the list of names to Philadelphia to the stated clerk of the assembly, the Rev. Dr. William Henry Roberts, who was made secretary of the committee. Dr. Roberts will notify the newly appointed men, and, if they access, their names will then be given to the public. The committee will meet at an early date, probably at Saratoga Springs. The full expenses of the committee are paid out of the treasury of the general assembly.

Dr. Minton addressed the meeting of the Presbyterian ministers Mon- It is incompatible with the course of day morning on Jonathan Edwards. There was a large attendance at the meeting. The paper was a learned exposition of Dr. Edwards' theological views. Many out-of-town ministers were present. Dr. Minton held that Dr. Edwards was the father of congregational theology in the country, but that his views were held today more faithfully in Princeton than among the Berkshire hills. He thought Dr. Edwards combined in a remarkable degree profound intellectuality and profound spirituality.

DIVORCE FOR TWO CAUSES.

Reformed Presbyterians Take a Firm Stand on the Question-Session Is Nearing an End.

Pittsburg, June 4 .- The Reformed Presbyterian synod yesterday listened to reports of the condition of the various presbyteries and church extension. A special report favoring the payment of a $2,000 deficit in the salaries of mine pastors of weak congregations was referred to a committee. The synod took a determined stand on the divorce question by adopting a resolution for presentation to the commissioners of uniform state laws urging that divorces be granted only for infidelity and such willful desertion as admits of no remedy. Dr. David McAllister, pastor of the Eighth Street church, submitted his resigmation as financial agent of the National Reform association, ill health prompting his action. The resignation was accepted, and Rev. R. C. Wylle, of Wilkinsburg, will succeed him. The report of the Reform assoefation was heard, and discussion of its recommendations, all of which were of a minor character, occupied the greater portion of the day.

The evening session was devoted to conference on missions. Several addresses on the scope of evangelis-tic work were made. Rev. William Rev. William Edwards, son of Jonathan Edwards, called attention to the work of the American Bible society. He made & plea for a systematic colportage in America, where this method of mistion work is so neglected.

The synod expects to complete its work and adjourn tomorrow. Syracuse, N. Y., will probably be chosen as the next place for holding the synodical meeting. An invitation has been extended from that city.

FOSTER ON THE CANAL.

Ex - Secretary Discusses the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty.

SAYS ENGLAND MUST YIELD TO US

Thinks That Congress Will Set Aside the Clayton-Bulwer Convention at the Next Session-Tells Why the Treaty Is No Longer Binding-Great Britain Warned In Time.

Former Secretary of State John W. Foster in his final address the other afternoon to Yale university, at New Haven, on rules governing treaties and their termination expressed the opin-Philadelphia, June 4.—Rev. Dr. W. Britain should not be one bit surprised of the most striking characteristics of if at the next session of the United States congress the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850 was abrogated.

"The time has come for the abrogation of that treaty," he continued. "Changed conditions from those that existed half a century ago, when that treaty was made, may affect treaty stipulations and would be sufficient authority for a nation to terminate a treaty. When the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was made, which gave to a private corporation the right to construct a canal through the isthmus of Panama, this country had a population of 23,000,000. Now this country has a population of 76,000,000.

"The whole face of affairs has changed. From a nation with the greatest part of its population on the Atlantic coast the growth has increased a hundredfold on the Pacific coast, and this country has grown into a world power. It is idle to contend that this nation should be held to the provisions of a treaty made half a century ago.

"The rejection of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty by Great Britain as amended by the senate of the United States simply throws this country back upon the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The maintenance of the Monroe doctrine demands that this treaty should be abrogated. One of the great questions involved is, Shall the United States have the right to exclude from passage through this canal any and all hostile powers?

"President Hayes in a message to congress took the ground that the canal should be under American control. President Garfield was practically of the same mind. Secretary Blaine entertained the same view. The United States could no more allow a hostile nation to pass its forces through this canal than it should be allowed to send troops through this country over the railroads of the country. President Arthur believed as did Blaine and his

"From Grant to Cleveland there is an unbroken line of presidents and secretaries of state who held that this should be an American canal and controlled by this country. The United States must have control over its use. the United States that after it has expended millions of dollars in the construction of a canal it is still to be restricted to the treaty of 1850. No such action is contemplated by this

"Great Britain has had ample notice by correspondence, by the trend of the sentiment of this country, by the utterances of Secretaries Blaine and Frelinghuysen, by the expressions of congress, especially the senate of the United States, and by diplomatic exchanges that the United States will never be satisfied until the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is abrogated.

"We are not taking any advantage of Great Britain in this matter by springing a surprise on her. Every congress and every commission or committee that has had this matter under consideration, Secretary John Sherman and that conservative statesman, Senator Edmunds, have all taken the ground that this country should never surrender its rights in this affair and that the canal should be under the control of the United States and practically that the treaty is no longer binding on the United States. "This country has determined that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty should not obstruct its progress on that canal, nor is it under any obligation not to construct the canal without regard to the treaty of 1850. The action of the United States senate in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is notice sufficient to Great Britain of the feeling of this country, and the congress of the United States need have no fear after such action that Great Britain hasn't had ample notice should the next congress decide upon the abrogation of the treaty of 1850.

"The United States is a faith observing country in the matter of treaties. As much cannot be said of other nations, Great Britain included. The reluctance of this country in carrying forward its plans about the canal has been due to the hope that England would accept the Hay-Pauncefote freaty as amended by the United States senate. The hope is gone, and the United States must now go ahead and declare the Clayton-Bulwer treaty terminated. Its best interests demand such action. This government can declare itself under no obligation to any power. The time has come to abrogate the treaty."

When the fight had about worn itself out and the managers were seeking an excuse to make a graceful retreat, the Rats could easily have secured an agreement which would have served to protect those of their number who had been most prominent in the struggle. But they didn't think of that, and now a large number of the rodents find themselves in the saved 5 per cent of their salary and actually have lost 100 per cent of it by reason of the fact that there is no longer a demand for their services.

Our English cousins are proverbially slow at "catching on" to a joke. Yet, despite all this, it seems to be doing some business in London, which brings us back at their expense.

William A. Brady, the indefatigable theatrical manager, is reported to have declared that the principal ambition of his life is to bring about the recognition of his wife, Grace George, as a star of the first magnitude. He declares that, in his opinion, she is possessed of ability of a high order and that it will be his life work to discover the exact line of work to which she is best suited. This declaration on Mr. Brady's part has elicited from certain "smart" dramatic critics any number of caustic allusions to the beauties of connubial blindness, but the fact nevertheless remains that when Miss George shall be given exactly the right piece she will be able to show pretty eral historical characters which Miss George could admirably depict, and it is surprising that her shrewd husband FOR SALE-The entire plat of lots and manager has not already hit upon on the south side of Thompson avenue one of these as a vehicle for her exploitation.

"The enterprise is so vast," said he, 'that it is difficult to give a comprehensive idea of it. I'm sorry the plan has become public, but since it has I'll admit that the purchase of the Atlas line is only a part of our general scheme and that we are negotiating for the control of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad.

"Our company owns today 127 ocean steamers. It is the largest steamship company in the world. With the acquisition of the railroad to transport our passengers and freight across this continent our line will practically encircle the globe, and we will control long distance shipping.

"We will be able to transport direct from Hamburg to Hongkong over our own lines. We will be able to carry European products to oriental markets much cheaper than by the present method of transportation. Also the Asiatic market will be able to get its products to Europe much cheaper than it has been able to."

The Hamburg-American line has a capital of $20,000,000, but this will soon be greatly increased. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad owns 7,108 miles of tracks. I have recently conversed with a number of managers concerning the theatrical season just closed, and it their statements are to be relied upon the late crash in Wall street was brought about by the stringency in the money market due to the fact that these particular managers had about all the coin in this realm snugly stowed away in safe deposit vaults. The trouble is, however, that these men are distinetly not to be relied upon. In fact, they are never to be taken seriously when discussing the receipts of their own attractions.

There are a few managers, though, who, incredible as it may appear, have an unaccountable tendency toward truth telling. One of these told me recently that since 1890 he had never had but two seasons which were poorer from his standpoint than the one of 1900-1. He says that while the season opened nicely business began to fall off terribly just before the election. While that was expected, it was also anticipated that after that event receipts would increase. But they didn't, and that is why so many little companies came to grief early in January. They struggled along from town to town, looking for the resumption of theatrical prosperity, which never came, and finally were obliged to give

The experience of Millie James demonstrates that, no matter how talented an actress may be, unless she has the bowels eve good fortune to be assigned to a role | b for which she is peculiarly fitted her upward climb on the ladder of fame is bound to involve a lot of hard work and many discouragements.

Miss James when William A. Brady determined to produce Clyde Fitch's drama, "Lovers' Lane," was cast for the role of Simplicity Johnson. No one suspected that the part could be made to stand out, and it is probable that when she received the manuscript and indeed up to the time of the first performance Miss James regarded the role with only faint interest. But the first night came, and Miss James' efforts were vociferously applauded. The next day the little woman found that, thanks to the critics, she was famous. She had signed with Mr. Brady for the season, and naturally the fact that she had made a big hit did not temporarily affect her salary, but it is safe to assume that when she "fixes" for next season her hebdomadal stipend will be Indeed it has been rumored that sev eral managers have been canvassing the advisability of having a piece written to order for Miss James and sending her out as a star. There is certainly an exceptionally good opportunity just now for a talented ingenue of her type.

As has been said, Miss James has made her hit at last and is now all right professionally, but prior to that she had very good parts with Roland Reed in "The Club Friend," with "Charley's Aunt," with "A Naval Cadet," with Annie Russell in "Catherine" and with "Woman and Wine,"

We shall soon have the opportunity to determine how good or how bad are Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott as Shylock and Portia respectively in "The Merchant of Venice." Reports which have reached New York from the cities What effect it had upon the show the already visited by the company are to prised even those critics who in advance were inclined to carp. At any rate, they have been doing enormous business, and, inasmuch as the management is probably not averse to making a little money on the tour despite its widely blazoned announcement that the production was made solely in the interest of art, it is not unlikely that Mr. Goodwin may be heard from later in "Richard III," which, according to report, is the next of Shakespeare's plays upon which he has designs. MR. GEORGE PLEASED

SAYS THE VERDICT IN HIS CASE IS SATISFACTORY.

Solicitor Gaston Also Expressed Himself As Being Satisfied With

In commenting on the outcome of his case with the city, ex-Engineer George stated to a reporter this morning that he was thoroughly satisfied with the verdict. "It is the books of data that are valuable to me," he said, "and by the decision of the jury I am allowed to retain them. The plans which are to be returned to the city are of minor importance, and the tracings, which are to be given over to me, are just as preferable."

Solicitor Gaston was asked how the verdict suited him. He said: "I am satisfied. It was the original plans that were of the most importance to the city, although the other property retained by Mr. George would have been of great value to the present owning to the peculiarity of the handwriting. Attorney Gaston asked the witness for the second time whether or not he had done the indexing of the book and he stated positive-

This concluded the testimony and To the Pittsburg Market-Frank it was argreed by the lawyers that they would limit their arguments. Mr. Gaston began by quoting the law tending to show that Mr. George had been guilty of confiscating property which did not belong to him and was, therefore, guilty in one sense of embezzlement. He said that the records, data, etc., which were retained by the defendant had been compiled while nesday evening Crockery City court, he was in the employ of the city, and T. B. H., at their regular meeting, will that he had no legal right to convert them to his own personal use. They attorney laid much stress on the assertion that in case of a lawsuit involving land of which Mr. George possessed the original plats, the city would be at the mercy of the courts, inasmuch as nothing but the original drawings would be recognized as evi-

By further quoting the law the attorney attempted to show that in case Mr. George had even unintentionally allowed his private data to become mixed with the city's he could claim no right to any of it. He also read the law defining what was considered to be public property and contended that all drawings, plans, note books and other data compiled by the defendant while employed by the city unquestionably belonged to the city and not Mr. George. Mr. Gaston said the evidence of the engineers who testified in the defendant's behalf, was of little or no significance, because of the fact that their duties could easily be place to attend the funeral, arrange of a different nature regarding the ments for which have not yet been keeping of records than those of an engineer in the employ of the city of Sewing Circle Meets-The sewing East Liverpool.

Attorney Brookes began his argu ment by saying that the law introduced by Mr. Gaston had no bearing on the case whatever against Mr. George. He said that in the 18 years his client had worked in this city and vicinity he had kept his data in the books which the city was attempting to take from him. Mr. Brookes further stated that the plaintiff was asking Mr. George to surrender data which he had collected years before he had ever gone into the employ of the city, and told the jury that a decision from them which would compel him to relinquish his private note books meant that the defendant would be virtually robbed of his life's labor.

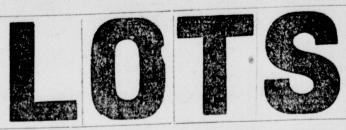

The attorney read from the same private purposes was not considered public records, and that for that reason his client was asking for nothing only that which he had a perfect right to possess. The attorney ridiculed the statement of Mr. Gaston that Mr. George had no right to hold copies of the city records, adding that any person who so desired had authority to take copies of any and all records in the office of the city engineer. Mr. Brookes finished his plea by saying that the plaintiff had asked for the benefit of Mr. George's lifetime experience when suit was entered against him. He read law to substantiate his claim, stating that if the defendant did take data belonging to the city he did so unintentionally, but could not be compelled to release it. He said that a decision of the case in the plaintiff's favor meant that a stigma would be cast on Mr. George's good name, inasmuch as the plaintiff's counsel had intimated he had been guilty of a criminal offense

Mr. Gaston took exception to Mr. Brookes' statement that he had accused Mr. George of crime. He said he did not doubt that the defendant held the property in controversy with the belief that he had a lawful right to it. He said the defendant had simply made an error in his judgment and had overstepped his rights when he took the data in question from the city. Mr. Gaston said he did not ask Mr. George to give up the information he had collected previous to his employment by the city-he only wanted the data compiled while he was working for the city.

The attorney contended that Mr. George used for private purposes only what data he retained, and showed by the defendant's own testimony that he had used his bench book to further his interests while doing work for the city. "The city paid Mr. Gaston stated that he thought for the records Mr. George has in his possession," said the attorney, d'and
